

SHARE:

Join Our Email List

July 2016

The July 8, 2016 ANSES Report recommends regulatory changes to ensure "sufficiently large safety margins" to protect the health of young children. "ALL wireless devices, including tablets, cordless phones, remote controlled toys, wireless toys, baby monitors and surveillance bracelets, should be subjected to the same regulatory obligations as cell phones."

-The National Agency of Health Security of Food, Environment and Labour Report

NEWS

NIOSH U.S. Government Scientist Explains The Why and How To Reduce Worker Exposures to ELF-EMF Magnetic Fields

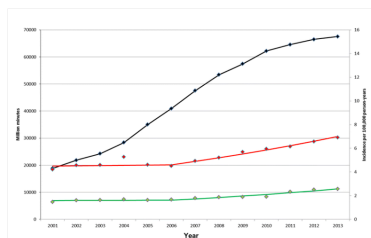

5G: The Next Massive Experiment on Our Children

Ignoring the U.S. government's own research and French and Israeli Government concerns, the U.S. is the first country in the world to open up higher-frequency millimeter wave spectrum for 5G.

Read Comments Opposing This

Joseph D. Bowman, PhD, of the Engineering and Physical Hazards Branch at The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) presented these slides to protect workers' health. Read More

Skyrocketing Increases in Thyroid Cancer in Nordic Countries

Researchers state results warrant investigating radiation exposure as a possible cause. Read More

Melanoma and Breast Cancer Significantly Associated with FM Transmitters

Learn More

Dr. Lisa Nagy joins The Doctors to increase awareness about electromagnetic-sensitivity

Watch the Video

Newer Untested Technology May Be More Dangerous Than Older Technology

Scientific analysis shows 3G phones could be more carcinogenic than 3G, raising serious health questions for 4G LTE and 5G. Read More

Former U.S. Fish and Wildlife Senior Biologist Warns Wildlife Could Be Endangered by Untested Wireless Technology

Dr. Albert M. Manville explains his recommendations that the FCC consider the non-thermal effects of cell tower antenna emissions on migratory birds and wildlife. Read More

Wall Street Journal: Debate Rekindled Over Health Risks From Cellphone Use

"Study results support push for tougher standards to protect humans from potential health effects." Professor Om Gandhi is featured in WSJ's second article covering the National Toxicology Program study results. Read the WSJ Article

The Public Health Consequences of Destroying Our Landlines

"Saving Your Landline May Save Your Life" says Dr. Cindy Russell in the Santa Clara County Medical Association's article on the push to remove copper telephone lines. Read More

MOMS WHO CARE

Moms Across Canada are Voicing Their Concerns to Their Government

Check out C4ST's New MOMS Campaign Here

Give to your favorite charities through Old Bill's Fun Run beginning Monday, August 1st, 2016. Your donation will be matched through Friday, September 16th, 2016.

Education, Research, and Policy to Reduce Environmental Risks

DONATE

STAY CONNECTED

